The splendour of shimmering snow-laden trees in winter is the inspiration for the Ice Queen Set. Misty Pendant

Mist is a naturally occurring phenomenon of small water droplets becoming suspended in the air. In some legends, mist could be manipulated and used by the druids as a protective veil, enabling them to hide from their foes. Mist was also considered by some people as a portal to the world of visions and dreams.

Nautilus

The transcendent beauty of the nautilus shell is reflected in the charismatic design of the Nautilus Set, which is set off by the sublime green of the peridot. The contrasting textures of polished and raw peridots combine to give the pieces a depth that's exciting, yet elegant. The set offers versatility through a spectacular pendant that can be worn as a brooch; both options match perfectly with a pair of earrings that look equally stunning worn on their own.

Rowan Set

Considered the mother of all trees and plants, the graceful rowan tree represents strength and protection; the ancient druids valued its sturdy wood, and the tree's sprigs and brilliant red berries were woven into necklaces and used as protective charms in times past.

In mythology, Sylvans were the spiritual guardians of the forest, keeping watch over the woods and protecting it with their lives. Some even made their homes within the trees they were sworn to protect. Their love for all living creatures, as well as the plants and trees around them, helped keep the forests safe.
